About the Johnson Tile Guide

With four sides, four edges and over a million designs, tiles have come a very long way since their invention in 3000 BC. This edition of the Johnson Tile Guide will take you through the wonderful journey of tiles by telling you about their history, origin and evolution. Presented by H & R Johnson (India), the pioneer of tiles in India, The Tile Guide has been designed to give you a brief account about our company and how tiles are a part of our heritage. Most importantly, this book will guide you with all the technical know-how of picking the right tile that'll make every room and living space more stunning than ever before as well tiles with the right functional attributes for different spaces.

The word 'Ceramic' came from the Greek term 'Keramos', meaning a potter or pottery.

From evolution to revolution in tiles...

The discovery of tiles dates back to the Pre-historic times. The earliest form of a tile was a block created by clay which was dug up from river banks. With time, tiles started evolving as they were carved or pigmented. Ancient Egyptians were the first ones to discover that tiles can be made stronger and water-resistant by firing clay at high temperatures in a kiln. The Mesopotamians took the aesthetics of tiles to the next level by using terra-cotta and colorful ceramic tiles to decorate their houses.

Relax & let the Johnson Tile Guide take over One usually experiences a lot of confusion regarding the purchase of ideal tiles for a particular room and usage. We, at Johnson, understand that and have designed this tile guide to help you with your tiling selection process. In this guide you'll find answers to most of your questions regarding tiles & help you to make an informed decision every time you go tile shopping.

It's different, not every tile is the same Created from a mixture of clay, sand and other natural substances, the body of ceramic tiles is molded into a shape and then fired at extremely high temperatures. These tiles are designed and decorated using sophisticated and standard international processes. These tiles have a lot of varieties and are classified on different parameters. Different spaces need different kinds of tiles. There is a wide variety of tiles that are available with different characteristics and functional attributes.

Smile with Tiles Ceramic tiles are the most ideal when it comes to covering walls, floors or any other surface. Nothing else comes close. Be it wood, wallpapers, marble or carpets. Here's why ceramic tiles are the most preferred choice: HYGIENE Unlike carpets that release odour over time, ceramic tiles are odourless. With no chemical or toxic emissions that come from paints, they display resistance against any kind of bacterial growth. DURABILITY Robust and easy-to-install, these tiles have superior strength and longevity as compared to marble and granite. SAFETY These tiles are fire-proof and heat-proof, making them safe for use in kitchens near the gas stove. Additionally, their water-proof nature makes them ideal for protecting buildings, shower rooms and traditionally wet areas. AESTHETICS & VERSATILITY Every space in your house can benefit from these tiles. Right from your bathroom to your living room, parking space to patio. You can get every desired effect, pattern and look with ceramic tiles. COST EFFECTIVENESS It's the life span of tiles which makes them an economic option over paints, carpets etc. Ceramic tiles last for long, making them a great buy. You always need the right tiles to make a space look perfect. With this understanding, we have gone to great lengths to bring you tiles of different sizes. Starting from as small as 100x100 mm (4 x 4 inches) to as huge as 1200X1800 MM (4 x 6 feet), we offer tiles that can fill in any space seamlessly. The aesthetics of our tiles combined with their versatile sizes and designs make them an ideal choice. With the widest range of stain-free tiles in various different sizes and characteristics, Johnson offers perfect options for commercial and residential spaces that help in keeping up and maintaining the highest standards of hygiene and cleanliness.

Classification of tiles Technically, tiles are classified on the two prime differentiators, whether the tile is Glazed or Unglazed on the top surface and how much is the Water Absorption of its body. Water Absorption Water absorption (WA) is an indication of porosity in the tile body. More WA means, tile body has higher porosity. WA is found to be a very good indicator of multiple technical characteristics such as mechanical strength, frost resistance, impact resistance, etc. Tiles with negligible WA (less than 0.5%) are referred as 'Porcelain' tiles or 'Vitrified' tiles. Johnson's Marbonite, Porselano and Endura tiles are pioneers in this category; these tiles are impervious to water and have much higher breaking strength to perform in areas that have such requirements. Tiles that have high WA (>10%) are not recommended for flooring as they have low mechanical strength. But if the WA is between 3-6%, they can perform good in residential and light traffic floor application provided they have a good thickness to achieve sufficient breaking-strength. Glazed & Unglazed Tiles Glazed ceramic tiles are available in both plain as well as decorative options and can be used on walls and floors. Unglazed tiles, which are vitrified are suited to commercial and industrial settings and can be used in exteriors, parking spaces, and utility rooms too when they possess other requisite characteristics also. The Marbonite range, for example, has superior unglazed vitrified tiles for commercial usage. These tiles could have shiny, polished as well as unpolished, matte surfaces. Non-vitrified, ceramic tiles are coated (glaze) with glass-forming minerals and ceramic stains. Typically, they may have glossy or matte appearance. Because of the impervious coating, they offer very good stain resistance. Ceramic glazed tiles are suitable for internal applications and for low-traffic areas.

The glazing layer can be present in both – high WA ceramic tiles as well as vitrified tiles. A layer of glaze makes a tile surface ideal for decoration by digital printing, a very popular new technology now, pioneered by H & R Johnson in India. Importance of Top Surface of your Tile The top finish of a tile is the touch, feel and look of its fair face (top). It not only complements the overall aesthetics but also facilitates important factors like slip resistance and ease of maintenance. Glossy surfaces are very smooth and as they reflect incident light falling on its surface, they shine. Polished term is also used for glossy surfaces where tiles are mechanically polished after firing. These are easy to maintain but generally low on slip resistance and scratch resistance. The other extreme top surface would be non-reflective, matte finish which basically has micro-roughness. Generally, these tiles perform better in abrasive environment. They also offer better slip- resistance. Wear Resistance of Floor Tiles Flooring is subjected to different stresses and if it is not wear resistant, it may get scratched and lose its aesthetic appeal soon. If your tile is unglazed, porcelain type, it has high scratch resistance because body of these vitrified tiles is quite hard. However, if your tile is glazed, its wear resistance needs to be checked enquired before making a decision.

At Johnson, we have got plenty of options for you, suiting all the dimensions and décor needs of your space.

A technical classification (PEI Ratings) of glazed tiles provide the following information: PEI 0 No foot traffic – These include tiles for walls of bathrooms and exteriors.

PEI 1 Very light traffic - These tiles are generally used to cover bathroom floors.

PEI 2 Light traffic - Places like bedrooms and study rooms are home to these tiles.

PEI 3 Light to moderate traffic - Ideal for all domestic floors where there is no movement of heavy appliances.

PEI 4 Moderate to heavy traffic - Entrance, passages, external public kitchens and offices are areas you could use these tiles in.

PEI 3 to PEI 4 - For all practical purposes, you need tiles from PEI-3 to PEI 4 for your residential flooring. And we have got plenty of options for you, suiting all the dimensions and décor needs of PEI 5 Heavy traffic - Public places like malls, churches, industrial floors, etc. have high abrasion and foot-falls and heavy traffic tiles are just perfect for them.

Not just aesthetics, finish has functional importance too...

Always looking to select different tiles for different spaces? We bring you a variety of finishes, each meticulously crafted for specific spaces giving you a range of tile styling options.

Surfaces and finishes

The finish of a tile is the touch, feel and look of its fair face (top). It not only complements the overall aesthetics but also facilitates important factors like slip resistance and ease of maintenance. Glossy surfaces are very smooth and as they reflect incident light falling on its surface, they shine. Polished term is also used for glossy surfaces where tiles are mechanically polished after firing. These are easy to maintain but generally low on slip resistance and scratch resistance. The other extreme would be non-reflective Matte finish tiles which have micro-roughness. Generally, these are quite robust and scratch-resistant. They also offer better slip- resistance. Then there could be multiple levels of reflectivity (shining) and smoothness, and different terms are used in the market place. Rustic, Satin, Sugar, Lapato and a few more terms are used. The role of finish is aesthetics, maintenance and functionality and your decision should be based on all three parameters, not just aesthetics.

Matt / Satin

These tiles have been designed to cater to residential, commercial and industrial areas. The surface controls the reflection of light from the flooring and the interiors do not create unnecessary glare. Matte finish also has better slip resistance than the polished / glossy finish. These are available for walls as well as floors. Matte/ Satin Matte finish tiles are available in almost all the ranges of Johnson viz, Johnson Tiles, Johnson Porcelano, Johnson Endura and now even in Johnson Marbonite in a variety of sizes and design themes.

Rustic

These tiles have micro roughness and are often made using a textured tile body or a durable, matt finish top surface. The effects of these tiles are more pronounced and capture rustic wood and natural stone themes. Johnson Porcelano tiles in Matt / Rustic finish, Johnson SSR series, Endura EDC, Endura Sandex series of tiles are popular choices in flooring. These are ideal solutions for floors that are subjected to high traffic & usage. Rustic finish tiles are available for wall as well.

Glossy, Polished and High Gloss Tiles

This finish is still very popular in India as it adds shine to the floor. When it comes to glossy wall tiles for bathrooms and kitchens, they offer easy maintenance too. Caution : If you are choosing tiles for flooring which will be subjected to higher foot-traffic, remember that all glazed, glossy tiles have lesser scratch resistance than their matte finish counter-parts. For residential purposes, glossy tiles are good.

Special Texture Effects

There are multiple options available based on reflectivity (shining) and smoothness, and different terms are in use in the market place. You would find - Rustic, Satin, Sugar, Lapato and a few more terms. But the role of finish is aesthetics, maintenance and functionality and your decision should be based on all three parameters, not just aesthetics.

Quality does matter Tiles are created using an extremely complex process. This causes some tiles to have certain flaws. Hence, tiles after firing are graded according to their type based on the severity of their flaws. PREMIUM These tiles are the best of the lot. These tiles qualify the specifications outlined by international and National Standards and have been created to make every room in your house very special. Every Box of 1st Quality is marked as "Premium". The boxes are colour coded. Blue colour is associated with 1st quality apart from the printing of word premium. This grade of tile fulfil the tolerance limits criteria set by the ISO and other technical standards as mentioned in the technical sheet provided by the company. 2nd AND OTHER LOWER QUALITY CATEGORY The tiles which do not conform to the stringent quality control parameters set by the manufacturer are sold as second quality (named as "Commercial") or third quality ("Economy"). These tiles may have one or multiple defects but can still be used for some applications where the deviations do not matter much. However, no manufacturer promises any consistency in these tiles that are sold at deep discounts and the customer should make this decision by his / her own risk assessment. Pick & choose the right tile... A tile shop has over hundreds of options on display. Picking the right tiles can be really confusing and time-consuming. But we bring you tips that'll help you pick the right tile. Every time! Tiles are a significant part of the space you create, be it your floors, walls or even that occasional pillar. It is natural that you'd tend to choose a tile mainly on the basis of its aesthetics like colour, tones, patterns, textures etc. But at the same time you're so drawn to a tile's aesthetics that you might overlook its functionality. The fact is that a certain set of tiles can't be applied to all spaces. For example, using a glossy tile for your bathroom flooring is a call for disaster. So the next time you set out to buy tiles, here are few things you could keep in mind. There's more to a tile than its beauty The space and usage of the surface that you want to tile is very important. There are different considerations for bathroom floors versus a living room or lobby flooring or even a parking lot. Tiles and Themes Plan it before you pick it up. Tiles are just a part of a bigger theme in any room. Try building a harmony between your tiles and every other part of your interiors like overall colour scheme, furnishings and lighting plan. Wall and floor tiles are also often bought in complimenting or contrasting colours as per the individual preferences. You can use the space visualizer feature on our website www.hrjohnsonindia.com to get a visual feel of your choice of tiles from the Johnson range would look on walls and floors of different living spaces like living rooms, bedrooms, kitchens, bathrooms, outdoors etc. Buy what fits your overall budget Prepare a total interior budget of your house before finalizing on 'per square feet' cost of a tile. For example – If your bedroom requires 160 square feet of tiles and you select tiles costing Rs. 60.00/sq.ft. it would cost you Rs. 9600. And then you come across a more appealing and a qualitative option worth Rs. 100.00/sq.ft. While this option indicates an approx. 60% increase in cost, the difference in absolute amount for the room would be Rs. 6400 only for a much better aesthetic appeal and an investment which will last longer. With mass production techniques, the cost of tiles has become more affordable today.

Count the number of tiles you need... How does one do the right math to get the right number of tiles for their home?

1-Calculate the area of surface by multiplying its length and width. Add quantity required for skirting while doing it for flooring. Normally 3" to 4" skirting (like border) of flooring tile is fixed on the wall, at sides of the room.

2 - Tiles are sold in predefined packages, containing definite and declared number of tiles of mentioned size (generally in millimeter or centimeter)

3- You need to suitably convert all the measurement in the same unit (for example: room area as well as area covered using all the tiles in a box – in square meter or square feet).

4 - Tiles are sold in boxes. Always add approximately 10% additional quantity depending upon the shape and size of the room, because tiles will be subjected to cutting, variations and some cut pieces may not be used.

5- Apart from this, it is always good to keep few tiles for the future. It may happen that due to unforeseen accidents some tiles are, or have to be, broken and at that future moment of time you may not get the chosen design/shade.

Tile Fixing Adhesives

H & R Johnson has always been at the forefront of innovations in tile technology. After all, it's our commitment to redefine lifestyles for years too come. Here are some of our path breaking products. Use matt finish tiles for bathroom which offer higher slip resistance from the Johnson Endura floor collection.

Conventional cement: Sand mortars

The cement is generally mixed in a ratio of 1:3 and mixed with water. Once a desired consistency has been achieved, bedding is formed.

Some of the cement paste is also applied on the back of the tile to lay and fix it.

Conventional cement bedding is usually 30-50mm.

Works best on; Porous wall tiles.

Cement –based /Synthetic adhesives

These are cement based fillings with special polymer additives like organic polymers, acrylic, vinyl, and polyurethane.

Usually available in powder form or with synthetic liquid ad mixtures and need to be mixed with water.

Synthetic adhesive-based bedding is generally 1-5mm.

Works best on: All types of tiling products

Recommended adhesives: We suggest the use of synthetic adhesives such as Ardex Endura for best results.

Here's why adhesives are better

The adhesive mix doesn't dry rapidly like conventional cement sand-mortars.

They are suitable for a variety of base including existing floor.

Prevent the tile from chipping and cracking.

They form a stronger bond between tile and the base.

They ensure a floor that is more durable.

Tile grouting... Tiles too need joint treatment

Grouting is the last and a recommended step in a tile installation job. Filling the joints with the right grout also brings out the beauty of the tiles. Grout comes in many different colours. Typically, a color that either matches or contrasts the colour of the tile is chosen. The joint grouts are available in either cement or epoxy base. Epoxy are costlier but meant for locations requiring high chemical resistance & hygiene. They offer greater resistance to stains, water damage by chemicals found in the household cleaners. Grout Spacers are small pieces of polypropylene used to ensure consistent width of the grout joints and they hold the tile securely in place for quick and accurate installation. Tile spacers allow for perfect alignment – giving an impeccable straight line finish. Spacers are available in 2mm, 3mm, 4mm, 5mm, 8mm and 10mm. We recommend tile adhesives and grouts offered by one of the most renowned international brand – Ardex Endura. 23 You can visit their website to know more

Tiling supervision is tiling perfection...

Hire a Good Tile Layer The tile layer's role is very important as he assembles the mortar, the adhesive and the tile. It requires a sound knowledge of material characteristics and processes. Properly laid tiles of ordinary quality produce acceptable results, but poor laying can compromise even the performance of quality tiles. Pay personal attention throughout the process Tiles pass through certain norms or quality checks to get a grading which helps you differentiate them in terms of quality. Tiles which pass through most of the norms are segregated as 1st Quality/Premium. Please check the boxes and ensure that you got premium quality tiles. Don't waste tiles In their loose form, tiles are often brittle. They need to be handled with care to keep them from breaking. But even with the best of precautions, some tiles tend to break. Don't be disheartened and throw away those few tiles. Instead use them for skirting or lay them out on corners or sides of a room, if the breakage is not unusually high. Due to the process of firing a natural product like a ceramic tile, it is expected that every tile is not going to be absolutely perfect. We, at Johnson, take utmost care to ensure that all Premium tiles qualify the international norms and tolerances defined. However, if a delivery includes tiles that don't qualify the applicable technical norms, please instruct your tile layer not to lay such tiles. Please bear in mind that all the warranties apply if tiles are not fixed.

Prevent your tiles from ageing.

Routine sweeping and swabbing with water is enough to keep your tiles looking new. Weekly use of tile-cleaning solutions can be used to wet-mop your house. Additionally, we bring you a few more tips that'll help your tiles stay healthy. 25 Avoid using steel wool and strong acids. Use a door mat at the entrance to reduce the tiles' deterioration because of dirt from outdoors. Use rubber to protect all furniture or other heavy furniture that rests on floor to prevent scratches and rust stains. Use a solution of white vinegar and water to remove most hard water stains.

Remember to clean any spills and stains immediately to prevent permanent staining. Kitchen countertops made of glazed tiles can be cleaned with a damp cloth or sponge every day. Bathrooms and shower areas can be cleaned once every week. This will help remove soap scum, body oils and hard water deposit build up. You can spray a commercial tile cleaner on the tile, letting it stand for 3-5 minutes and then rinse it off.

Going green our, Second Nature

The pressure on nature's resources increases everyday jeopardising the future of the planet, and the human race itself. The onus lies on shoulders of corporate citizens to act responsibly. Fulfilling this responsibility, we at Johnson have initiated a number of measures, both big and small. We promote energy conservation by reducing unnecessary use of precious natural resources. Towards this, we increasingly use green fuels like biomass energy and wind energy. We also leverage local resources, and keep manufacturing and distribution local to cut down on fuel consumption wasted in transportation. Many of the tile collections from Johnson are GreenPro certified. GreenPro is a mark of guarantee that the product which bears the GreenPro label is environment friendly and this helps an environmentally conscious customer to make an informed choice and buy eco-friendly products. 6 of Johnson's plants maintain 100% zero liquid discharge. We are constantly trying to reduce our freshwater consumption by recycling all waste water generated within our facilities and maintaining the Zero Liquid Discharge (ZLD) status at most of our plants. Our manufacturing plants are equipped with rain water harvesting (RWH) systems that have conserved more than 1.44 lakh m<sup>3</sup> rain water. Our initiatives in energy conservation have been awarded by the likes of Gas Authority of India Limited (GAIL), and the Bureau of Energy Efficiency (BEE), Ministry of Power, Government of India. But the biggest reward is the thought that we are leaving the planet behind for our children like the way we found it. Pure and green.

Access friendly India... the Red Ramp Project

It's not easy to live in India if you're one of the millions of people who are differently-abled. There are not enough ramps for wheelchairs; the pavements are not very friendly to people who are visually challenged, public transport buses and taxis don't have special facilities and there are millions of other problems that the differently-abled people face everyday in India. As a part of our social awareness initiative H & R Johnson has launched the Red Ramp Project to spread awareness in our country about the need to make public places access friendly in India for our differently-abled people. It is our wish and hope that the Red Ramp Project enables the people and other organizations in India to sit up, take notice and contribute in their own ways towards making our country access friendly.
